Individual Contribution Log

Your Name:	Stephanie Peborde Burke
Contribution Team	Website and Content
Description of Contributions	• Collected information via Google Form about each student to go with their photo on the Students tab • Provided feedback on logo • Made a list of resources, based on ideas from the entire cohort, for our Solutions page. I added more as I saw other cohort members use them in their other projects and presentations. We'll continue to update these! • Assisted, gave feedback and ideas during practice for the actual presentation

Your Strengths	• I kept checking in with the project managers, especially during the time we were considering what theme we were going with. • I was flexible. I really felt that I could work on any aspect of what went into the website and content. I took on whatever no one jumped on. • I quickly whipped up a Google Form to collect everyone's information • I was observant during presentations to obtain more ideas for the resources list • I was supportive and provided feedback on the logo and the website • I was supportive of the website group and of the entire cohort as we worked on the project. • I am artistic and do dabble in graphic design. I wanted to help with the logo, but thought it might be best to let others with more experience handle it (Michael and Hayet). I'm not sure whether or not this was good or bad, but I feel as though it was the right decision. I could only think of the "too many cooks" idiom. With a small project like that, it was easier to just give feedback on what they had done. It's not a project easily done by many people when you need to draw on the computer. I also had to consider my abilities since I was staying in the dorms and that I didn't have my Wacom tablet with me.
Your Weaknesses	• I wish I was able to do more! Looking back, maybe I should have stepped up and said exactly what I wanted to work on, rather than taking what no one wanted (strength and weakness). • I think I could have become more involved with photos for the website. • I would have liked to help with the logo, but I let it go (both a strength and weakness).
